election day. Watch. >>> His name isn't on the ballot this november, but it will seem like old times in arkansas because former president bill clinton is returning home to headline a series of campaign rallies for democratic candidates. Clinton will appear at four rallies over two days to help democrats including gubernatorial candidate mike ross who used to be his driver. And senator mark prior. But political experts say they are unsure if clinton's poll will be enough to push the democrats to victory in the republican-leaning state. A recent "usa today" suffolk university poll shows asa hutchinson with a two-point lead over ross. And a cbs news/"new york times" poll released last week shows republican congressman torn cotton with a four-point lead over senator prior. >>> This morning, the "usa today" editorial board is weighing in on the back of debates that we're seeing this midterm season. Now, the paper writes, quote, this november for the first time in 36 years, voters in ohio will go to the polls without having seen a single debate in the state's gubernatorial contest. In michigan, no debates have been scheduled in the senate race and only one is expected in the gubernatorial race. None has been scheduled between major party candidates in senate races in tennessee or mississippi. Numerous house races are also debateless. The paper alls this the era of big ney saying candidates get out of debates by flooding the airwaves with tv ads. That brings us to our twitter question. Candidates don't debate?

A slew of recent polls show that the party's much-touted female recruits are losing -- in some cases, badly -- to male Democratic opponents in the competition for women's votes in iowa, michigan and oregon.

That has implications for Republicans hoping to win control of the Senate this fall, as well as for a broader GOP strategy that rested on recruiting wo
