TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Suffolk University Law School, Boston, Massachusetts

Associate Director of Legal Practice Skills, July 2016-present

Assist with the hiring, training, and review of LPS adjuncts, LPS visitors, and new LPS faculty; coordinate research instruction, training, and assessments; and assist with refinements to the LPS curriculum.

Professor of Legal Writing, July 2010-present

Associate Professor of Legal Writing, July 2005-June 2010

Instructor, July 1997-June 1999; July 2002-June 2005

Teach a required first year, year-long course that covers legal research, analysis, writing, and oral advocacy. Instruct students on how to research legal issues, write office memoranda, draft client letters, and write legal memoranda in support of or in opposition to trial motions. Counsel students on their writing proficiency in one-on-one conferences.

Acting Director of Legal Practice Skills, August-December 2018

Coordinated legal research and writing program during Director's sabbatical. Supervised five full-time LPS professors, three visitors, and four adjuncts. Responsibilities included hiring new LPS faculty; developing the syllabi; creating teaching materials; overseeing objective memorandum problems, the research exam, and the capstone; and handling all student issues within program.

Arizona State University College of Law, Tempe, Arizona

Visiting Legal Writing Professor, June-July 2004

Taught Intensive Legal Research and Writing, an advanced, intensive research and writing course that provides students with analytical, research, and writing challenges. Met daily with each student to assign a new project and to provide critical feedback on prior assignments.

William S. Boyd School of Law, University of Nevada, Las Vegas, Las Vegas, Nevada
Visiting Legal Writing Professor, May-August 2003

Taught Advanced Appellate Advocacy, a four-credit course in the final semester of a three-semester program. Covered legal writing, legal research, and professionalism, and introduced other lawyering skills. Instructed students in writing a brief and presenting an oral argument based on a complex, multi-issue case that was before the United States Supreme Court. In addition, counseled students on their writing proficiency during one-on-one conferences.

Arizona State University College of Law, Tempe, Arizona
Legal Writing Professor, August 1999-May 2002

Taught the first-year legal writing and methods course, an Appellate Advocacy course, an Intensive Legal Research and Writing course, and an Advanced Legal Writing course. Counseled students on their writing proficiency during one-on-one conferences. Participated in the development of the new legal writing program and assisted in transition from a student-based program to a program taught by full-time professors. In addition, assumed administrative duties of legal writing director while director was on leave and was responsible for the oversight of the legal writing department.
